

Airlines should be made to provide oxygen canisters at no cost to the traveler. I can see where there might be a problem with someone bringing their own canister for safety reasons. I have heard of airlines charging as much as $200 for oxygen use. Most of the travelers that are on oxygen are strapped financially due to medical expenses and imposing an additional charge for oxygen use is a very big financial burden.